Terms & Conditions

Client Service Agreement

Effective Date: 1 July 2026

Oyo, Nigeria — Creative Studio

1. Introduction & Acceptance

These Terms & Conditions ("Terms") govern every project, proposal, and engagement between Dezola Studio ("Dezola," "we," "us") and the client commissioning work ("Client," "you"), based in Oyo, Nigeria. By approving a written proposal, paying a deposit, or instructing Dezola to begin work, the Client confirms they have read, understood, and agreed to these Terms in full. Where a signed proposal or scope-of-work document conflicts with these Terms, the signed proposal takes precedence only for the specific point in conflict — all other clauses here still apply.

2. Scope of Services

Dezola provides branding & identity, web & UI/UX design and development, motion & animation, digital marketing, and SEO & analytics services. The exact deliverables, page count, features, and package inclusions for a project are defined in the written proposal or quote issued before work begins. Any request outside that written scope is treated as additional work and will be quoted and agreed separately before Dezola begins it.

3. Payment Terms

3.1 Deposit & Balance

A 50% deposit of the agreed project fee is required before any design or development work begins. The remaining 50% balance is due in full before final handover — meaning before source files, hosting credentials, or the live site are transferred to the Client. Dezola reserves the right to pause work at any stage if payment milestones are not met.

3.2 Payment Method

Payment is accepted via bank transfer only. A receipt is issued for every payment made. Dezola does not begin or resume work on the basis of a verbal or unconfirmed promise of payment.

3.3 Late Payment

If the final balance is not paid within 14 days of the project being marked ready for handover, Dezola reserves the right to: (a) suspend access to any staging link or preview of the work, (b) charge a late payment fee of 5% of the outstanding balance for every 30 days the payment remains overdue, and/or (c) withhold final source files and login credentials until payment is received in full. The Client remains responsible for the full balance regardless of these measures.

3.4 Scope Changes

Any change to the agreed scope after work has begun — additional pages, new features, or a materially different direction — will be quoted in writing and is payable separately from the original project fee.

4. Design & Development Process

4.1 Revision Rounds

Each package includes a defined number of design revision rounds, as stated in the proposal. A "revision" means refining or adjusting work that is already aligned with the agreed creative direction — colors, copy edits, layout tweaks, image swaps, and similar feedback. Revision rounds beyond what is included in the package are billed at NGN 15,000 – NGN 25,000 per additional round, depending on complexity, and must be paid before the additional round is started.

4.2 Direction Changes (“Restarts”)

A direction change is different from a revision: it means asking Dezola to abandon the agreed creative direction and begin again from a substantially different concept — for example, a different visual style, layout system, or overall design direction for the website or brand. The Client may request up to three (3) direction changes at any point during the development of a single project, at no additional cost beyond the original project fee. From the fourth direction change onward, each further request to restart the design from a new direction is treated as a new project phase and will be quoted and invoiced as additional work before Dezola begins it. This policy exists to keep projects moving forward and to ensure design time is used productively for both parties.

4.3 Client Responsibilities

- Provide all required content — text, images, logos, and brand assets — in a timely manner. Delays in content delivery may delay the project timeline accordingly, through no fault of Dezola.
- Respond to requests for feedback or approval within 5 business days where possible, to keep the project on schedule.
- Designate a single point of contact authorized to approve work and request changes on the Client's behalf.

5. Project Acceptance & Sign-Off

When the Client formally approves the final delivered website or design (“Acceptance”), whether in writing, by email, or by making the final payment, the project is considered complete and accepted as delivered. Acceptance confirms the Client is satisfied the deliverable matches the agreed scope.

6. Post-Launch Support & Edits

6.1 Free Support Window

Following Acceptance, Dezola provides 30 days of free post-launch support. During this window, the Client may request reasonable edits to the delivered site — such as text updates, minor styling adjustments, image swaps, or fixing small layout issues — at no additional charge, provided the request stays within the original scope and does not introduce new pages, features, or sections.

6.2 Paid Edits After 30 Days

Once the 30-day window has passed, any further edit request is billed at NGN 15,000 – NGN 25,000 per edit request, depending on complexity, payable before the edit is made. An “edit request” covers one bundled set of related changes submitted together (e.g. updating contact details and swapping two images counts as one edit request); unrelated change requests submitted separately are billed individually. Clients who anticipate needing ongoing changes are encouraged to ask about a Maintenance Retainer instead, which covers recurring updates at a fixed monthly rate.

6.3 Bug Fixes Are Always Free

A bug — something Dezola built that is broken, malfunctioning, or not working as specified in the agreed scope — is corrected free of charge at any time after launch, with no time limit, as part of Dezola's standard quality warranty. Bug fixes are not billed as edits. If there is any uncertainty about whether a request is a bug or a billable edit, Dezola will assess it in good faith and explain its reasoning to the Client before proceeding.

7. Ownership & Intellectual Property

7.1 Transfer of Ownership

Upon receipt of full and final payment, ownership of the final delivered files (website code, design files, and brand assets created specifically for the Client) transfers to the Client. Dezola retains no claim over the finished, paid-for deliverable beyond what is described in Section 7.2 below.

7.2 Portfolio & Promotional Use

Dezola retains the right to display completed projects — including screenshots, designs, and a description of the work — in its portfolio, website, social media, and marketing materials, even after ownership has transferred to the Client. This is standard practice and helps Dezola showcase its work to future clients. Clients who do not want their project featured may request this in writing prior to or at project completion, and Dezola will exclude that project from public portfolio use accordingly.

7.3 Third-Party Assets

Where a project uses licensed stock photography, fonts, plugins, or other third-party assets, those assets remain subject to their original license terms and are not owned outright by either party. The Client is responsible for renewing any such licenses after handover if required.

8. Third-Party Costs

Unless explicitly included in the proposal, the following are the Client's responsibility and are not covered by the project fee: domain name registration and renewal, web hosting fees, third-party software or plugin license fees, payment gateway charges, and paid advertising spend (e.g. Meta Ads or Google Ads budget). Dezola can advise on or manage these on the Client's behalf where agreed in writing, but the underlying costs are passed through to the Client.

9. Cancellation & Refunds

Either party may cancel a project in writing before completion. If the Client cancels after work has begun, refund of the deposit is assessed case by case, taking into account the stage of work completed, time already invested, and any third-party costs already incurred on the Client's behalf. Any refund issued will reflect the portion of work not yet delivered; the deposit is not automatically refundable in full once design or development work has started.

10. Confidentiality

Both parties agree to keep confidential any non-public business information shared during the course of the project — including but not limited to business plans, pricing, and unreleased branding — and not to disclose it to third parties without written consent, except as required by law.

11. Limitation of Liability

Dezola will perform all services with reasonable skill and care. However, Dezola is not liable for any indirect, incidental, or consequential loss — including loss of revenue, data, or business opportunity — arising from the use of the delivered website or materials. Dezola's total liability for any claim arising from a project is limited to the total fees paid by the Client for that specific project. Dezola is not responsible for downtime, data loss, or security issues caused by third-party hosting providers, plugins, or the Client's own actions after handover.

12. Force Majeure

Neither party is liable for delays or failure to perform obligations caused by circumstances beyond reasonable control, including power or internet outages, natural disasters, civil unrest, or government action. Affected timelines will be extended by a reasonable period to reflect the delay.

13. Governing Law & Dispute Resolution

These Terms are governed by the laws of the Federal Republic of Nigeria. Both parties agree to first attempt to resolve any dispute informally and in good faith. If a resolution cannot be reached within 30 days, the dispute may be referred to mediation or the appropriate courts within Nigeria.

14. Amendments

Dezola may update these Terms from time to time. The version in effect at the time a proposal is signed or a deposit is paid is the version that applies to that project. The current version is always available at dezolastudio.name.ng.

15. Contact

Questions about these Terms can be directed to Dezola Studio at bb2010ng@gmail.com or +234 904 842 8304. We're based in Oyo, Nigeria and respond to enquiries within 24 hours.

This document is a standard service agreement template for general client work and does not constitute formal legal advice. For high-value or unusually structured engagements, both parties are encouraged to have this agreement reviewed by independent legal counsel before signing.
